WASHINGTON, June 1, 1842.

In Senate to-day, the President presented the petition of Amos Kendall for remuneration for a judgment of $11,000 and costs, obtained against him by Stockton, Stokes & Moore, for acts, as he alleges, done in the discharge of his official duty, and by the advice of the President of the United States, while Postmaster General.

Mr. BAXTER introduced a bill to amend the act for the payment for horses and property lost in the military service of the United States in 1837. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

On motion of Mr. BAXTER, the resolution proposing for the employment of a corps of Reporters by the Senate, was taken up and after brief remarks by several gentlemen, among whom, Mr. BAXTER advocated and Mr. KNOX opposed the resolution. Mr. SMITH of Ia., moved to lay the resolution on the table. Carried, Yeas 30, Nays 10.

The Apportionment Bill was again taken up, the District Section being under consideration, requiring (as it came from the House) the elections in all the States to be made by single and contiguous Districts, but (as amended by the Committee of the Senate) providing merely that in the States where the elections are held by Districts the Districts shall be single and contiguous.

The amendment of the Senate was further briefly discussed by Messrs. Henderson, Woodbury, McRoberts, Wilcox, Rivers and Allen.

The question was then taken and the amendment rejected, Yeas 1, Nays 49, as follows:

YEAS.—Messrs. Berrien, Buchanan, Linn, Wright, A. Nays—Messrs. Barber, Bagby, Burton, Byles, Bayard, Bowles, Calhoun, Clayton, Comell, Cratty, Cunningham, Evans, Faile, Graham, Huntington, Kerr, King, Ladd, Loring, M'Clintock, M'Connel, M'Gowen, Porter, Preston, Rivers, Ross, Semple, Smith, T. S. St. John, Sweeney, Trelawny, Turner, Vassall, W. H. Woodward, Wilcox, Worcester, Young.—46.

This amendment having been rejected and the section remain as it came from the House, Mr. WILCOX moved an amendment nearly the same in substance as that just rejected.

Without further consideration of the subject, the Senate adjourned.

The SPEAKER presented a letter from AUGUSTA MURKIN, Esq., transmitting and requesting the acceptance by the House of an original portrait of Christopher Columbus.

A resolution was adopted, authorizing the Select Committee on the alleged frauds committed on the Cherokees and Chickasaws to send for persons and papers.

Mr. SALTONSTALL asked leave to enter a resolution providing for the taking up of the tariff bill, immediately after the passage of the Army Appropriation bill, which was not received, objecting to its effect.

The House proceeded to the consideration of business relative to the District of Columbia, as the speaker ordered for today and to-morrow. On motion of Mr. UNDERWOOD, the bill to suspend or Est. March 1, 1843, (unless (as amended by the Senate) the banks of Baltimore or Richmond receive specific payments previously, that portion of the bill to revise and extend the charter of the bank of the District of Columbia, which nihil, was from putting out the notes of conspecific paying banks when the 1st March, 1842, was taken up.

Mr. POWELL of Va. moved to suspend the amendment of the Senate by striking out "or," and inserting "and," so as to read: "The Banks of Baltimore and Richmond," &c. The Banks of Baltimore, he said, had already ceded, and the bill would be of no other use than an amendment provided. He moved the previous question to avoid debate, a disposition to which, for the purpose of delay and defeat of the bill, was manifested by the Long-Faces, who then endeavored to effect their object by odds of Yeas and Nays, points of order, &c.

Mr. WELLER moved to lay the bill on the table—refused: Yeas 36; Nays 91.

Mr. BOWNE moved a call of the House, in which the Yeas and Nays were taken. He then repeated the motion to lay on the table, which the Speaker decided out of order, he appealed, and on the appeal of the Yeas and Nays were taken. At the call of Mr. BOWNE the Yeas and Nays were taken on the previous question and on the amendment of Mr. POWELL, which was rejected: Yeas 70; Nays 102. Thus the object of the bill being defeated, Mr. UNDERWOOD moved to lay it on the table, which was carried without a division.

The bill providing for the repair of Potomac Bridge was considered for some time by the House and finally passed with an amendment prohibiting the vending of lottery tickets in the District of Columbia.

The bill to incorporate the Washington Gas Light Company was taken up and, less than a quorum being in attendance after a call of the House and several Yeas and Nays, the bill was laid on the table and the House adjourned. ARGUS.

BALTIMORE DAILY WHIG.—A new paper with this title made its appearance in Baltimore on Wednesday. It advocates the election of HENRY CLAY to the Presidency in '44.

We understand that the Rev. Dr. JOHN has accepted the appointment of Assistant Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Virginia, which was unanimously conferred upon him by the Convention a fortnight since. He will, however, continue to officiate as rector of Christ Church until the first of October next. [Balt. American.]

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Mr. Joseph Mansell of Hermon, was killed 27th inst. while getting timber in the woods near his house. He and his oldest son were scaring on the same stick, when the son's ax glanced and entered the ear of his father's leg, chopping it nearly off and severing all the blood vessels, by which he died before he could be got to a hospital. He got his gun and was preparing to carry his threat into execution, when his wife seized an axe and gave him two well aimed blows on the head, which caused his death in a few hours. An inquest was held on the body. Verdict—justifiable homicide. [Boston Times.]

BANGOR WHIG.—A man named Patrick McFall, who lived on Frog Bayou, Arkansas, was killed by his wife on the 22d instant. It appears McFall was in the habit of getting drunk, and when drunk, was quarrelsome and abusive particularly to his family. On the day of his death he endeavored to get hold of his son, in order, as he said, to kill him, but they ran from the house, pursued by his father, who, failing to get him, returned, saying in would kill his wife. He got his gun and was preparing to carry his threat into execution, when his wife seized an axe and gave him two well aimed blows on the head, which caused his death in a few hours. An inquest was held on the body. Verdict—justifiable homicide. [Boston Times.]
